

Chapter 2.3.5 UMBRELLA CLAUSES AND OTHER PROTECTIONS IN INTERNATIONAL INVESTMENT AGREEMENTS

by Balázs Horváthy

A. INTRODUCTION

B. PROTECTION UNDER UMBRELLA CLAUSES

- I. Definition and function of the umbrella clause
- II. Origins and development of the protection in the treaty practice
- III. Forms, language and wording of umbrella clauses
- IV. Effect and scope
 1. Rejection of umbrella clause claims by narrower interpretations
 2. Wider interpretations. The meaning of 'contract' and 'obligation'
 3. The governing law: host State's law, the law applicable to the contract and international law
 4. Effect of third parties' contracts. Contracts concluded by State entities
 5. Procedural effects of umbrella clauses
- V. Summary

C. ADMISSION CLAUSES AND RIGHT OF ESTABLISHMENT

- I. Definition and function
- II. Variations of admission clauses in the treaty practice
- III. Pre-entry and pre-establishment obligations of the host States
- IV. Summary

D. NATIONAL TREATMENT

- I. The national treatment in international investment law. Definition and function
- II. Effect and scope of national treatment
 1. The 'like circumstances' and the treatment of the foreign investor
 2. The basis of comparison

3. The differentiation and justification for the differentiation

4. The discriminatory intent of the host State

III. Summary

E. MOST-FAVORED-NATION TREATMENT

I. The definition and function of MFN clauses in international investment law

II. The origins of MFN clauses. Forms and wording

III. Effects and scope of MFN clauses

IV. Summary

F. TRANSFER OF FUNDS

I. The right to transfer and the monetary sovereignty of the host States

II. The right to transfer in the BITs. Inward and outward transfers

III. Effects, scope and limitations

IV. Summary

G. STANDARDS APPLICABLE TO EXTRAORDINARY EVENTS: FORCE MAJEURE, PUBLIC ORDER, ARMED CONFLICTS AND ESSENTIAL SECURITY INTERESTS

I. Provisions on emergency and exceptional situations in treaty practice

II. Types of concepts and the policy leeway of the host State

III. Summary

H. CONCLUSION

BIBLIOGRAPHY